GRAVITATIONAL-WAVE ASTRONOMY: NEW DISCOVERIES, PUZZLES & PROSPECTS

Ever since their first discovery by the Laser Interferometer Gravitational-Wave Observatory, compact binary coalescences of neutron stars and black holes have resolved several old enigmas, while raising new questions in gravity, astronomy and fundamental physics. They ultimately hold the secret to resolve their own puzzles and explore physics beyond the Standard Model. This would require the construction of observatories with even better sensitivity and astrophysical reach. This talk will highlight what we have learned so far from gravitational wave observations and plans for building new observatories such as the LIGO-India, Einstein Telescope and Cosmic Explorer.
